1. The Hungarian General Staff has revived its Directorate of Military Transportation. An office has been established in the MAV (Hungarian State Railways) building.
2. The Directorate has instituted the use of special locomotives to test rails and has increased the number of guards at strategic locations. The Directorate has also issued a booklet for emergency use regarding the movement of trains in case of war, the construction of shelters at stations and alarm signals.
3. Soviet Major Curiginia, the representative for railway transportation with the Hungarian Central Army group cooperates closely with the MAV. Soviet liaison officers situated at important Hungarian railroad centers report to Curiginia.
